VERBATIM QUOTE:

"...bank holding companies can expand into activities as diverse as leasing, management consulting, underwriting municipal general obligation bonds, and discount brokerage. Indeed, nearly forty nonbank activities have either been permitted by regulation or by order of the Federal Reserve ..." ¹

or a PARAPHRASED REFERENCE or a SUMMARY OF AN IDEA

The Federal Reserve exceeds its authority – at some peril – by allowing banks operating in its network of influence to engage in risky non-banking activities that put investors' as well the peoples' money and assets at risk all in the name of maximizing profits.¹
